WE NOMINATE

Frank Melvin McPhee, Princeton University's 81st captain of football and one of the great Princeton ends of modern times, who this Saturday makes his farewell "Big Three" appearance in Palmer Stadium as the Tigers and Harvard observe the 75th anniversary of the inauguration of the country's most celebrated gridiron round-robin. In the fall of 1952, with Harvard, Princeton and Yale all in the thick of the struggle for Ivy League laurels and with enthusiasts recalling such axioms as the "impossible can be the possible in any 'Big Three' Game," the 21-year old McPhee symbolizes the best intercollegiate sport has to offer.

A resident of Ohio and the son of a well-known coach, whose "products" have included captains at a dozen different colleges, McPhee is an anachronism in present-day football, for he "goes both ways"—offense and defense. In 1950 he shifted from end to defensive halfback and last year returned to end to earn All-American Defensive Honors and also to win the Pennsylvania game with the "catch of the year." This fall, in Coach Charles Caldwell's words, "he is on the field whenever we need him and in the tough games that is most of the time."

McPhee, president of his high school chapter of the National Honor Society, maintains a near-honors average in his studies and, unlike many college seniors, thinks out the 'why' of his own decisions. For instance, he is "majoring" in Religion, not because he is preparing for the ministry, but because—as he explains it—"I feel that the most important aspect of a university education is gaining an understanding of one's fellow men. If you understand the religions of others, you should have little trouble grasping ideas different from your own. That's why I am 'in' Religion and not in History, Economics or Math."

The carrot-topped McPhee, standing 6-3 and weighing 203 pounds, has the sort of natural athletic ability that connotes proficiency in any sport. An excellent golfer as well as a schoolboy stand-out in basketball and baseball, he was the top scorer on his freshman basketball team and then played a winter of varsity basketball. Last spring, with the elimination of spring football (a move McPhee bemoaned), he turned to track and "was in the first meet I ever saw." He developed rapidly as a javelin thrower and carried off first place in Princeton's first track victory over Yale in a decade.

For looking upon football as part of university life and not as an end in itself; for displaying on the gridiron the kind of leadership that bodes well for the upcoming campus generation; for "feeling guilty" when he is singled out for praise and others aren't given "their proper due"; he is TOWN TOPICS nominee for Record Vote, Split Decision. Princeton and New Jersey contributed to the Republican landslide on Tuesday but Mercer County withstood it. At all levels, a record-breaking vote was cast, 87.6% of registered borough voters going to the polls (in contrast to 75% four years ago), while 88.8% of township residents cast ballots.

At the national level, General Eisenhower lost only one district in the borough (the sixth) and none in the township. He polled slightly better than 60% of the combined vote of the two municipalities. Governor Stevenson, however, made a considerably better showing in Princeton than did the 1948 victor, President Truman.

Senator Smith, returned to office by more than 200,000 (Eisenhower's plurality was over 300,000), followed suit in taking 11 of the town's 12 districts. But Democratic Congressman Charles R. Howell, running well ahead of his ticket, took a third of the districts to poll nearly 3,000 votes in the community. He was returned to office for a third term with a plurality of some 11,750, winning Mercer by 14,200 before Burlington County pared his margin.

Democratic freeholder candidates also won, unseating the lone Republican member of the seven-man board. There were less than 2,200 votes out of nearly 100,000 cast separating Francis J. Black, Democrat, from the G.O.P. incumbent, Stewart H. O'Donnell. Winning with Mr. Black were Freeholders William H. Falcey and Joseph S. Holland.

In Princeton borough, Councilman J. Dayton Voorhees was high man, polling 2,513 votes as he was named for a fourth term. His Republican running mate, Alfred E. Sorenson received 2,467, succeeding George R. Grifling, who did not seek a third term. They defeated J. Kendall Wallis (1,616 votes) and John H. Golden (1,601.)

John H. Wallace, Jr., Republican incumbent in the township, was also successful, polling 1,763 votes to 897 for Robert R. France. Unopposed for tax assessor, William M. Karch received a complimentary vote of 1,958.

Closest outcome in both municipalities was on the referendum in the township seeking voter approval for payment by that municipality to the borough for use of the Public Library. It was approved, 1,162 to 942, and was taken by supporters of consolidations between the two areas as a vote of confidence for their program.

Both state-wide referendums were passed, both receiving much larger margins here than they did in the State. Approval of state credit for the $285,000,000 Garden State Parkway bond issue was backed by 4 to 1 in the township and by 5 to 1 in the borough. The $25,000,000 institutional bond issue received 10 to 1 support in the township and as much as 18 to 1 in the borough.

If the vote set records (7,123 of 8,432 went to the polls), it also created a new mark for completed tabulation. Urged by both parties to vote early, Princetonians did so, many a district going through more than half its registration before the noon hour. Actually, delays that occurred in getting to the machines were greater then than late in the day, but many a voter was in and out of his district in less than 10 minutes.

First returns from borough districts were available through the TOWN TOPICS election service at 8:14, and by 9:05 results from the entire community were at hand. Four years ago, hand tabulation was not completed until 2 a.m. and in 1940 (when Wendell Willkie ran against President Roosevelt), the ballots were not fully tabulated until after the sun had risen.

Consolidation Next. Having settled a number of major issues with Tuesday's election, Princetonians will be given an opportunity to consider another in the months ahead. The subject is that of borough-township consolidation, on which the League of Women Voters has prepared a detailed report in booklet form.

Climaxing a three-year study on the knotty municipal problem, publication of the report makes available facts and figures on a wide variety of pertinent topics. Among those discussed are recreation, zoning, housing, traffic control, fire protection, health services and schools.

On the latter topic, the report reveals that whereas borough school taxes account for 42.5 cents of every dollar levied on property owners, the figure in the township is 61 cents. The report adds that according to present estimates, the latter municipality will not be able to absorb the ever-increasing number of school-age children in the next few years.

The League feels that wide education of the public on the pros and cons of consolidation is essential before a referendum is held. The question can be placed before the voters if petitions bearing the names of 20% of their number in each municipality are presented to the governing bodies.

It's New to Us

Elegance, After Dark. Now that autumn colors are beginning to wane, we think less in terms of stadium tweeds and more of holiday glitter-clothes. We found, at The French Shop, 20 Nassau, a fine collection of dresses and accessories that will escort you to gaiety any hour of the day.

They have some white angora stoles, triangular in shape, to be worn lightly over a strapless or halter top. Depending on the style, they are $16.50 or slightly higher. A few have a narrow border of sequins and these are $35. The wool is fine as baby yarn and not nearly as fuzzy as you would expect from angora.

A long stole, deeply fringed, and measuring a good 18 inches wide, comes in fine white wool jersey, or navy, or black or navy backed with black. It's $16.95.

Challis, in a paisley pattern, makes a triangular scarf that is less stole than shawl. Its colors—in the one we saw, at least—are deep gold, light grey and oyster white, with short thick fringe that repeats these shades.

Lace cocktail dresses by Holiday come in navy or deep turquoise, with taffeta and satin trim. Their dark, unobtrusive colors make them especially desirable for city wear; if you're traveling to New York on the train you'll find them inconspicuous and easy to manage.

If you have no desire to be inconspicuous, why not try the ruby red satin with its slender jeweled straps and deeply scooped neck? Its companion is a pure silk cocktail dress in emerald green, almost an antique green, with the fullest skirt this side of a martini, and a low wide neckline. These dresses are about $50.

A junior size might like the direct manner of a brilliant red velvet with straight narrow skirt and plain wide neck. It would take a junior figure to wear it, but it would be a terrific hit. What a red!

Ooops! Nothing can shake your composure like a burst shopping bag that spews oranges and canned soup all over Nassau Street. At Stonewald's, formerly Zavelle's, 13 Palmer Square West, you can buy a Memo shopper—a plaid shopping bag that weighs only two ounces, but will hold up to 50 pounds.

The bag is made of a taffetized fabric and bound with a clear plastic binding that looks as though it would never split. You fold this bag up into a tiny package and slip it into your purse. The cost is $1.75.

The great American problem seems to be the matter of keeping table-tops dry. Somebody must spend all his time thinking up new coaster ideas. At Stonewald's we saw three-dimensional ones, which means they have a small ridge around the edge to dam up the liquid.

They're called Merrimats, and they're rubber—eight for $2.95. Steig has drawn cartoons on each, and his merry (or inhibited) drinkers are fun to look at. Captions like "Mother loved me but she died" or "Public opinion no longer worries me," should rouse your curiosity enough to send you around for a look. Napkins to match are $1 a box.

Thoroughly Clean. You've seen big-city advertisements about the Jonny-mop and you may have heard about its neat and sanitary

Copies of the report have been sent to numerous organizations and interested individuals throughout town. They may also be borrowed from the Public Library or from Mrs. John V. A. Fine (1-3694) or Mrs. A. W. Tucker (1-3855-J.)

The League has also planned a series of unit meetings to be held next week for detailed discussion of consolidation. Open to the public, they will be held according to this schedule:

Monday, 8:15 p.m. Mrs. Norman Frederiksen, 25 Harold Avenue; Mrs. Werner Hollman, leader. Tuesday, 8:15 p.m. Mrs. William Abrams, 35 University Place. Mrs. Richard Van Wagenen, leader.

Wednesday, 10 a.m.: Mrs. Richard Lester, 121 Broadmead; Mrs. Jacob Viner, leader. Wednesday, 8:15 p.m.: Miss Hetty Goldman, 2 Newlin Road; Mrs. William Gibbons, leader; Thursday, 1:15 p.m., Mrs. Alan Carrick, Prospect Avenue and Cedar Lane; Mrs. Donald Wallace, leader.

Housing Applications Wanted. David S. Lloyd, Jr., chairman of the Borough Housing Authority, has issued a strong appeal for applications to all those interested in living in the Hageman Homes, low-cost housing project being constructed in the Clay-Witherspoon Street area.

Mr. Lloyd said that all applications will be given consideration, and pointed out that township as well as borough residents are eligible insofar as their present locations are concerned. Completion of the 50-unit project is scheduled for early 1953.

Mrs. Ann S. Fullam of 44 Westcott Road has been named tenant selection supervisor by the Authority. She will review all applications and will interview prospective tenants considered eligible after their requests have been screened.

Application blanks are available at the project office, Clay and Witherspoon Streets; Room 31, First National Bank Building; the Social Service Bureau, the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A., borough and township halls; and the ministers of Princeton churches.

New Y-Building. Indications that the proposed new YM-YWCA building has reached the definite planning stage were pointed up by the announcement this week that Sherley W. Morgan, former head of the department of architecture at Princeton, and Kenneth Kassler have been retained as architects.

While neither a timetable or a specific sum to be spent have been decided upon as yet, final decisions can be expected in the near future, according to the organization presidents, Dr. Paul R. Chesebro and Mrs. Lewis V. Thomas. One plan under consideration would call for a fund-raising campaign starting in the fall of 1953, with ground to be broken the following year.

The building is expected to be at least two stories and will conform architecturally with the site and the community in general. The YMCA holds the title to the 4½-acre site, which extends from the rear of Avalon on Bayard Lane to the Dorothea House on John Street, and from the south border of Stanworth to the north border of Greenholm.

The need for new facilities was recognized as far back as 1943 because of the inadequacies of the existing plants and the growth of the community. Both associations made independent studies and then a joint committee was formed with Dr. Elmer Engstrom as chairman. The procedures committee now preparing plans was formed later with Judge A. Dayton Oliphant as its head.

Hospital Sale Thursday. The annual fall rummage sale staged by the Hospital Aid Committee will take place next Thursday, November 13, at the Chambers Street firehouse. A special sale of household equipment will be held Wednesday; contributions may be left Monday and Tuesday.

Princeton merchants have contributed a considerable amount of new merchandise to the sale, proceeds from which will help meet the cost of the coffee and gift shop to be operated by the committee at Princeton Hospital. Among the articles from stores will be new bolts of decorator's fabrics for drapes and slipcovers; new dresses, blouses, hats, books and gift novelties.

Corporal Shorten Wounded. On the casualty list from Korea released last weekend was Corporal Walter Shorten, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Shorten of Berrien Avenue, Princeton Junction. He was wounded in the back and leg by shrapnel, Mrs. Shorten said, and also suffered a broken arm. His condition is not serious and his mother reports he "hopes for, but is not banking on, the possibility of being home by Christmas."

A graduate of Princeton High School two years ago, where he played football and served on the student council and student court, Corporal Shorten joined the Marines soon after receiving his diploma. He took his basic training at Camp Pendleton, California, and reached Korea last March. He is a member of the 3d Battalion, 7th Regiment, 1st Marine Division.

Y.W.C.A. Program Planned. The Princeton Y.W.C.A. will observe World Fellowship Week starting Sunday and will be represented at the national celebration in Washington that day. Attending the service in the National Cathedral will be Mrs. Kenneth M. Ritchie, chairman of the association's World Fellowship Committee; Miss Marlene Scott, Mrs. E. Harris Harbison, Princeton and national board member, and her son, John.

Mrs. Harbison and her son have composed, respectively, the words and music for one of the hymns to be sung at the service. They will be special guests on the occasion and will, with Mrs. Ritchie and Miss Scott, attend a reception at the White House later in the day.

World Fellowship week will be observed throughout this country in 65 foreign lands, under Y.W.C.A. leadership. Programs will be held here throughout the week, including a meeting at the Nassau Center next Friday of the Y-Wives, who will devote their efforts to the "Kits for Korea" project.

Funds Still Needed. The First Aid Unit of Princeton Engine Company No. 1 has renewed its appeal for funds to maintain ambulance service to the community for another 12 months. Those who have not contributed are asked to do so now, sending cash, checks or money order to the organization.

To date, approximately $5,000 has been received. Last year, more than $7,000 was contributed, with funds necessary not only to meet operating expenses, insurance and depreciation costs but to permit the purchase of another ambulance when those now in service have outlived their usefulness.

Lay Council Appointees. Eleven persons were named to the Princeton High School Lay Council at its first fall meeting. Speakers at the session included B. Woodhull Davis, supervising principal, Harold A. O'Dell, principal, and Dr. Warren G. Findley, council chairman.

Named from the sending districts for three-year terms were: H. A. Siebert, Hopewell Borough; Arthur Groff, Lawrence Township; Dr. Findley and Mrs. J. A. Muller, Princeton Township; Mrs. Martin Caples, West Windsor Township. Mrs. A. J. Higgins was named for a one-year term to represent South Brunswick Township, filling the unexpired term of Mrs. R. E. Shope.

William Hall and Dr. E. Harris Harbison were chosen for terms of three and two years, respectively, will be inaugurated next Monday over Station WBUD (1490) on the program "Nan About Town" (Mrs. Nan Radnor, moderator) at 7:30 p.m.

Panelists for the introductory broadcast will be Dr. DeWitt H. Smith, of Drakes Corner Road; Mrs. Floyd Gindhart, president of the Mercer County Medical Society's Women's Auxiliary, and Dr. William Carroll.

Progress Report. Steady growth since its establishment four years ago is reported by the research firm of G. F. Bush Associates, whose laboratory is in Hopewell. Mr. Bush, a resident of 391 Nassau Street, was formerly a Princeton University faculty member.

ways. The mop is in sale now at The Food Mart, 20 Witherspoon, for $1.29.

For those who missed it on TV, the mop is a pair of clear plastic tongs. You insert the spoon end of the handle into the open end of a disposable pad. Then you clean the bowl of the toilet. The pad contains a foaming detergent, a deodorant and a sanitizing agent that is supposed to do a first-rate job.

When you have finished, you press a button that opens the handle, break the pad and flush it away. Pad refills are ten for 29c. It's a break for fastidious housewives who often balk at this distasteful job. The pad won't clog your plumbing, by the way.

Arranged for Fall. American women who used to scoff at grandmat spending hours arranging roses in a bowl, are now turning with almost as much zeal to arranging dried flowers, plants and seed-pods on flat surfaces. You hang your finished product on the wall, if it's good enough, or lay it flat on the dining table. All the wherewithal is at The Flower Basket, 136 Nassau.

Here you can buy special florist's clay to serve as a foundation. (It's waterproof.) From there, your fancy is your guide.

We saw skeleton magnolia leaves, put through a process that makes them everlasting; Peruvian moss like the stuff they use in Ming trees; Roses of India (the part of a coconut plant that joins nut to branch), pine sprouts, fern pods in a chocolate brown. If you have a flair for this kind of business, you could turn out something quite impressive for your Thanksgiving table.

Not having this kind of flair, we took to a tiny cotton pod, cotton removed, which we liked for a miniature fall boutonniere.

This doesn't apply to us, but if you have 12 pairs of shoes, you could probably use the chrome-plate shoe-rack at The Flower Basket. It stands on the floor, about two feet high, with "scallops" in the bars of the rack.

Your shoes hang, six pairs to a side, from these scallops. It's $6 . . . you supply the shoes.

The American Youth Foundation has a Camp Fund, and for the benefit of that Fund, the Flower Basket is selling some extremely attractive little aprons. A ridiculous little pink organdy heart, for example, with a deep ruffle all around. Or black chintz with a flowered border that's really a pocket. Each apron is $2.50, regardless of style, and all are hand-made.

Solid brass has been used to make a fireplace set that's just like any other, except that it's only a foot and a half high. Brush, poker, tongs, shovel, are all standard size, but the handles are just long enough to grab onto. Price: $15.

Allergic to Feathers? You'd be surprised how many of your friends probably are. You can give them some comfort when they visit you by making a sofa pillow of Flake, on sale at Boothertune's, 10 Chambers.

Flake is flaked latex, a foam rubber for home upholsterers. One pound at 98 cents will make one sofa pillow. Two pounds would make a small bed pillow. You could also use it to make play-pen pads, chair pads, dolls, and even pet cushions for dog or cat.

It's shredded in large enough flakes so it won't get away from you the way feathers do. For that reason and for its economy, you'll probably be interested, allergy or no.

The firm's products are primarily electro-mechanical instruments for research and production, and have been shipped throughout the United States, as well as to Canada, Sweden and Chile. Research and development have been encouraged in recent months by the textile, rubber and paper industries. Mr. Bush reports that the firm's clients include several government agencies in the Department of Defense, as well as a number of the nation's largest industrial firms.

Miscellany. Sons have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Kannan, 76 Pine Street; Mr. and Mrs. Carshoune White, 123½ John Street; daughters to Mr. and Mrs. Jeter A. Isely, 294 Nassau Street; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lowthian, 295 Hamilton Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Mistyhn, R.D. 1; Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, Laurel Avenue, Kingston.

The Hallowe'en Eve collection of funds by the Princeton Council of Church Young People netted $305 for the UN International Children's Emergency Relief Fund

A century ago, members of the Whig and Clio debating societies at the College of New Jersey, sparred verbally on the topic, "Resolved, that it is beneficial for students to frequent the society of young ladies." Friday night at 8:45 in Whig Hall, members of the Harvard and Princeton debate teams will consider the same subject in humorous fashion. The occasion is open to the public without charge.

COMING TO McCARTER

Ronald Bush
in "The Mikado"

News of the Theatres

McCARTER THEATRE

The Mikado will be presented by the American Savoyards next Thursday, November 13 at McCarter. The company now on nation-wide tour, is under the direction of Dorothy Raedler, who is known as one of the experts in the delicate matters of Gilbert and Sullivan staging. Ronald Bush will play the crown prince of Japan in the G & S classic.

The performers have won wide acclaim for their light opera productions which are augumented by full chorus and orchestra. Tickets are on sale at the University Store.

TRIANGLE SHOW

Having already completed the first run-through, the Triangle Club's 61st production, "Ham 'n Legs," is a good three weeks ahead of last year's rehearsal schedule. Five weeks remain for polishing and revision before the show opens at McCarter Theater on December 11.

Most of the credit is due to Bill Butler, the director, and Bill Powers, the choreographer, for bringing the musical along so rapidly. However, much of the playboy attitude of the mid-'thirties and thereabouts has been replaced by a professional concern throughout the production.

At this stage, the sketches for the revue are lagging while the many songs and dances should pull together as soon as the music is orchestrated. "The Worrybird," likely to be the show's most popular number, is virtually ready for production. The song has been recorded by Johnny Desmond for Coral Records and is due for release in January.

The score, written almost completely by Glenn Paxton '53, Triangle vice-president, promises to be one of the best in the club's history. In addition, both the chorus and the solo voices are definitely better than those of last winter's "Never Say Horses."

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Snows of Kilimanjaro. (Thurs.-Sat.) is one of those huge, spectacular, Technicolor, heavily-publicized things aimed at a storming of the box office. What you expect is one of the best stories by Ernest Hemingway given new scope and power by the film medium. What you get is sugar-coated romance and a happy ending to attract the ladies and something like an adolescent daydream of female conquests to attract the gentlemen. Gregory Peck plays an author, dying (but he doesn't) in Africa and reviewing by flashback a career of which he is not too proud.

The women in his life include Susan Hayward, Ava Gardner and Hildegarde Neff. There are some plus aspects of the film, however, and they include a certain amount of effectiveness of performance, the color photography and some wild animal sequenes. Advanced prices.

Springfield Rifle. (Sun. - Tues.) doesn't have much to do with the weapon, being mainly a Civil War Western. Gary Cooper leads the heroics, serving up counter-intelligence for the North by enlisting with the Confederates. The action moves along at such a breath-taking pace that there's practically no time for bothering with motivation.

The New Jersey Poll

PUBLIC SCHOOLS DESERVE INCREASED EXPENDITURES, STATE-WIDE POLL SHOWS

(The New Jersey Poll's final predictions on the Presidential election in New Jersey gave Eisenhower 56.6%, Stevenson 42.9% and .5% to other candidates.

Nationally, Eisenhower was given 50.8%, Stevenson 48.8% and others .4%.

Smith received 53.6% in the race for U. S. Senator to 45.4% for Alexander and 1% for other candidates. The Republican Congressional candidates throughout the state were given 54.9% of the vote to 45.1% for the Democrats.

A comparison of these figures with the actual results will be provided in next week's issue.)

A majority of the New Jersey public (51%) is of the opinion that its local school district should spend more money on the public schools than it does now. Only five in 100 believe the local school district should spend less.

This was the finding when New Jersey Poll staff reporters recently asked the following question of an accurate cross-section of New Jersey voters:

"What about your own local school district? Do you feel that it ought to spend more or less money on the public schools than it does now?"

Spend more	51%
Spend less	5
About right	28
No opinion	16

Two interesting sidelights emerge from today's survey. One is that the more education people have had, the more they are inclined to feel that their local school district should spend more money.

Differences of opinion by educational levels can be seen in the following tables:

	Grade Or No Schooling	High School	Partial or Complete College
More	43%	55%	57%
Less	7	3	6
About right	27	30	26
No opinion	23	12	11

The other is that the larger the community, the greater the sentiment that their school district is not spending enough on public schools.

	Rural Areas	2,500-21,999	25,000-99,999	Over 100,000
More	38%	52%	53%	55%
Less	4	5	4	6
Right amt	38	31	30	18
No opinion	20	12	13	21

PRINCETON'S DEFENSIVE PLATOON BACKS AN OLD FOOTBALL AXIOM: 'YOU CAN'T SCORE WITHOUT THE BALL'

Sports in Princeton

Revival in the Big Three. For the first time in 30 years or more, Harvard, Princeton and Yale will launch their highly traditional Big Three rivalry with records that rank with the best in the East. Each has lost but once, each has an embyonic winning streak going. Princeton has the best offensive mark in the East (391.3 yards per game); Yale and Harvard are well up among the leaders.

The Elis have the best defensive mark in the Ivy League (followed by Princeton) and in end Ed Woodsum, who tops the individual scoring, have a player rated with the legendary Larry Kelley. Yale's Ed Molloy and Harvard's Dick Clasby are listed with the best passers and top ground gainers in the circuit, with Clasby as good a triple threat as this section of the country can boast.

Yale, leading the Ivy League with a 4-0 mark, is 6-1 for the season and idle until it entertains Princeton in the Bowl a week from Saturday. Harvard at 5-1 (loser only to Columbia) has won more games this season than in the four-year period from 1948 through 1951. The Crimson's resurgence is expected to draw between 35,000 and 40,000 persons to Palmer Stadium for Saturday's 1:30 kickoff.

Employing the single wing and demonstrating a soundness in football fundamentals painstakingly drilled into it by Coach Lloyd Jordan, Harvard offers a line backfield as its major threat. Gil O'Neil is the quarterback; Clasby the tailback; Bob Ederer the wingback; and 215-lb. John Culver the fullback.

All four are above average. Elmer Lampe, end coach at Dartmouth who scouts Princeton, said in the press box last Saturday that he thinks the Crimson's backfield is as good or better than the Tigers'. Ederer, incidentally, doesn't get the publicity accorded Clasby but he is a fine runner and a top flight pass receiver. Charlie Caldwell considers Culver better than any fullback Princeton will meet this season.

Harvard's offensive line figures to be distinctly able. The Crimson rolled for four touchdowns against both Colgate and Dartmouth, trimming the Green for the first time since 1946. The squad has poise and experience that has been lacking in the past, having started the season with 24 lettermen, many of whom began to show ability toward the end of last year.

Princeton will go against the Crimson with essentially the same lineup that nearly blew a sub-par Brown team out of the open end of the Stadium Saturday. The Orange and Black rolled for 26 points in less than 13 minutes, cutting through the soft Bruin defenses like a knife through cheese, before the reserves took over for the last three periods. The final count was 39-0 but it could have been 69 or 99 if the first string had played its normal quota.

Once again, Princeton's tremendous defensive platoon contributed directly to the victory. It recovered four of the five Brown fumbles and the first three on which it landed immediately brought touchdowns.

Bob Unger capped a 62-yard drive following the kickoff with a pretty 26-yard dash around left end for the first score and five minutes later passed to Frank McPhee for another. Then Sandy Kessaris fumbled twice, Dick Thompson recovering the first and George Kovatch the second. Dick Frye passed to Pete Van Gytenbeek for the third touchdown and Bill Tryon peeled off the weak side for 24 yards and the fourth.

That was the ball game. Tryon passed to Dick Emery before the clock ran out in the first half for another six points and Somers Sleelman, reserve fullback, plunged over from the two midway through the third quarter. All the losers' threats were frustrated, Caldwell tossing the first line back into action a couple of times to preserve the shutout.

It was Princeton's third in a row, fourth this season and sixth in its last eight games. Brown has not scored against the Tigers since 1949.

Tigers Are Ready. With the possible exception of Frye, and tackle

Pete Weimar who is out for the season with muscular troubles in his back, the squad is expected to be at full strength for invading Harvard. Frye left the Brown game with a recurrence of his shoulder injury and his status is in doubt.

Earl Byrne will start at wingback, but Dick Yaffa, a fast runner, is ready. Bob Unger will run and pass from the tailback slot, with Ralph Willis the quarterback. They will be spelled, respectively, by Bill Tryon and Frank Lovecchio, with Dick Emery another quarterback likely to see action.

Fullback Homer Smith will give Harvard considerable trouble throughout the afternoon. Brown jammed the middle against him, slowing him down to some degree, but paid the piper when Unger and Tryon moved with relative ease to the outside. Harvard, a considerbly better team, will still have the same fundamental problem.

It is in this specific department defensive experience and ability that the difference between the two teams this weekend is figured to be. Harvard, putting its best men on attack, has gambled a bit with its defense and does not appear to be a match for the Tigers in this respect. A Dartmouth team that has won but one in six scored three times against the Crimson and last weekend, little Davidson rolled four TD's across before succumbing to the superior Harvard attack, 35-26.

The Cambridge eleven is expected to score on Saturday and possibly to make quite a battle out of it. There is no reason to believe, however, that the visitors can match a line that offers All-American Frank McPhee and Harvey Mathis at ends; sophomores Pete Milano and George Kovatch, the best pair of sophomores to come up together as tackles in many years at Princeton; and Marty Mayer and big Brad Glass as rugged guards.

The Tiger linebackers, John Henn and Art Pitts, have gained a world of experience this season. Buzz Taylor and Jack Newell are veteran defensive halfbacks, and Ned Jannotta is one of the East's most dependable safety men. Reserve strength is something of a problem, but no team in the East has a better record of points scored against it: 32 this season and only 13 when it mattered.

For the first time since 1949, Princeton has reason to worry about the outcome of its games with Harvard and Yale. The inevitable cycle has set in, with the Tigers not as strong as they have been and their two opponents measurably improved. The latter trend

TO DEFEND BIG THREE TITLE

Captain Frank McPhee will lead Princeton in search of unprecedented sixth straight victories over Harvard and Yale.

field which started went out of the game after a bruising from the much bigger visitors.

Al Terry, playing with a bad wrist, added a leg injury, Harry Burton went out from exhaustion, and Pete Johnson after a game but fruitless day at quarterback, suffered a broken finger on his left hand. From the defensive backfield, Dick Wood was sidelined with a wrenched knee and Bob Bosley also took a pounding.

Surprisingly enough, Princeton left the field at halftime with a lead of 7-0 which it well deserved. The Blue and White defensive setup made Somerville look strangely inept on the attack and the visitors also had a dangerous case of fumblitis.

The best defensive play of the day produced the lone PHS touchdown. Deep in Princeton territory, the visitor's Dick Kolans barely got off his pass as tacklers poured in on him. His throw went right to Burton, playing the defensive right half, and Harry gathered in the ball on the 20 and set off on an 80-yard sprint down the sidelines, accompanied by a fleet of blockers.

BMI, which has yet to win a game, scored first before the half, setting the Fathers' Day crowd on edge. Andy Sontora stepped 47 yards before he was tackled on the Red and Black one, and Bob Brandt then plunged over for the score from pointblank range.

Hun got the tally back in the third quarter when Ray Alberigi, the tailback, cut loose around right end and covered 65 yards. Hun also was unable to convert the extra point, and until a sustained drive produced the fruitless first down a yard from BMI paydirt, both offenses were well throttled.

The tie was the first for Jess Willard's charges in six contests, of which three have been victories. However, Hun appears to have an excellent chance to defeat hapless Princeton High and Eastern Military, which would produce a solid 5-2-1 mark for the year.

but the film is a slight cut above the average offering in the gunplay line. Color.

The Quiet Man (Wed.-Sat.) is another superior achievement for the versatile director John Ford ("The Informer," "Stagecoach"). The story is a simple romantic tale, but Ford has captured the feel of a nation and its people and customs by consummate attention to provincial detail. Ireland is practically the star of the film and the charm of the country is presented with a mood, plot, tempo, style and technique different from anything to come from Hollywood in years.

In outline John Wayne as a retired American prizefighter comes to Ireland to retire, falls in love with and marries Maureen O'Hara. Enroute, he arouses the ire of Victor McLaglen and the film ends with an epic struggle between the two.

Barry Fitzgerald is a natural as the general character of the village. A group of Abbey Theatre players also lend their talents and the Technicolor photography is magnificent.

THE GARDEN

Horizons West (Fri.-Sat.) may even bore the brute action fans. Robert Ryan in his customary nasty role plays a Civil War vet bent on power. His boys gun some of the more prominent local citizenry and then everybody's mad. Ryan catches a bullet in the end, having had time for a brief romance in the usual stilted fashion Hollywood figures for Western love-making.

Laura (Mon.-Tues.) has been reissued, and with considerable success. The film (made in 1944) is a thrilling murder mystery, plus being remarkably well-produced and acted. Gene Tierney heads the cast which includes Dana Andrews, Clifton Webb, Vincent Price and the redoubtable Judith Anderson.

Jour de Fete (Wed.-Thurs.) runs to slapstick in the best French tradition. The film has liberal amounts of the charm and cheer of the village-comedy-type. In French with English subtitles.

Way of a Gaucho (Fri. - Sat.) rates as somewhat more adult than the common run of American Westerns and much of the interest rests on the pampas, the towering Andes and the people of Argentina where the film was made. It appears that 75 years ago in Argentina, one could go around killing people and wind up in the army for punishment. Rory Calhoun finds himself in this spot, deserts to bandit life, makes a pick-up of Gene Tierney and finally goes straight. Despite several genuinely fine passages, the film never quite rings the bell.

with Harvard and Yale. The inevitable cycle has set in, with the Tigers not as strong as they have been and their two opponents measurably improved. The latter trend, in any event, is distinctly desirable.

Cappy Cappon has brought back a flattering scouting report on Harvard, and the Molloy-to-Woodsum aerial circus is causing considerable concern about the outcome of the game in the Bowl. So is the week's vacation the Elis have before they meet Princeton, giving the Blue less chance to incur injuries and 11 full days (instead of five) in which to prepare for their big game.

Still and all, if there is some doubt about the outcome here, a realistic evaluation of what they must face cannot be of much solace to Harvard and Yale. The Crimson comes to Palmer Stadium, where the Tigers have lost but two games in the last four seasons. The Elis have not beaten the Orange and Black in New Haven since 1946.

Both teams must face the best running attack in the East, bolstered by four better than average passers and better kicking than Princeton has had in over a decade. The Tigers have a marked edge on defense, and what advantage there is in depth on the three squads lies with them.

It is the firm belief here that Princeton can win its sixth straight Big Three title in the action immediately ahead. Both games can be close; it is a certainty that only the best play of which the Tigers are capable will win for them. There is, however, also a possibility that topflight performances will give them something of a one-sided triumph in at least one of the contests.

How much of the Yale squad will be here in the absence of a game on the Eli schedule is unknown. No big block of seats has been shipped to New Haven.

The Elis are, however, taking full advantage of the opportunity to scout their Big Three rivals. Ten seats have been assigned in the press box to Jordan Olivar and his staff.

More Misery. Princeton High sank to its fifth straight loss of the season at the hands of undefeated Somerville, 25-7, and heads for more trouble as it faces Hun School this Thursday. As if losing to Somerville wasn't enough, Joe Jingoli's charges took a fearsome beating physically.

Tailback Bob Montgomery sat out the game with the exception of one kickoff because of a leg injury, but three-fourths of the backfield on the 20 and set off on an 80-yard sprint down the sidelines, accompanied by a fleet of blockers.

The extra point came on a double handoff, Cal Ruedeman to Johnson to Terry, who skirted right end. Behind with less than two minutes in the half, Somerville moved the ball from its own 34 to the Princeton six, but when the play was over the Little Tigers were in possession.

Kolans pitched to Leroy Lusardi, who picked up blockers and looked as if he would go the route. But Terry hit him on about the 25 and the ball rolled free. John Broadway fell on it, lost it in the scramble and Captain Ruedmann finally covered the pigskin.

The second half was a different story as Princeton tired rapidly under pressure and the invaders ripped the Blue and White forward wall and secondary to shreds. Lusardi turned on the heat as he crashed through for four touchdowns, three of them in the final period when injuries sapped the Little Tiger strength.

Lusardi scored on runs of 12, 15, 30 and 46 yards, charging through the line and outracing the secondary time and again. Together with his brother Bob at the other halfback, Lusardi made the Somerville attack look like a world-beater.

Princeton had a futile day of it on offense, particularly in the passing department. Without Montgomery and with Terry's wrist heavily taped, the aerial burden fell on Johnson who never quite found the range with the Orange and Black forwards pouring in on him repeatedly.

Bosley stood out on defense, recovering two of Somerville's five fumbles, batting down a point after touchdown pass and making tackle after tackle. He may miss the Hun game because of injuries, however, and Johnson will definitely not play in the intra-Princeton contest. Jim Sculerati has been named as the quarterback replacement.

Muffed Chance. Hun school had four straight cracks from the one-yard line in the final period against Bordentown Military Institute, but the rugged cadets repulsed the home team each time to earn a 6-6 tie last Saturday.
